Symmons Industries Introduces The Museo™ Bath Collection
The unique polished graphite finish defines any bath design

Braintree, MA, April 22, 2010 - Symmons Industries introduced the Museo™ bath Collection, the newest addition to their family of premier bath suites at the Kitchen & Bath Industry Show in Chicago.

The new Museo Collection features a bold, contemporary design, inspired by timeless pieces displayed in modern museums throughout the world. Much like the pieces showcased in a museum, the Museo lavatory faucet instantly becomes a focal point. With its nine inch high center spout and tall handles, the Museo faucet makes a dramatic statement and enhances any contemporary or transitional décor.

"The Museo Collection's clean and sophisticated styling is a true reflection of contemporary design, and allows other bath elements to be simple, serene and understated" explained Beth Mercurio, Vice President of Marketing for Symmons Industries.

Designers say that the finish on bath fittings is equally as important as the structural design of the product. The Museo Collection will be offered in polished graphite, a finish unlike any other dark finish available in today's market. The new finish is a dark lustrous color that falls in between dark gray and black with a natural reflective quality. Another unique feature of the polished graphite finish is chrome detailing which adds a modern touch to the bold design of the Museo Collection.

"We wanted to create a finish that was brand new to the market. Our polished graphite finish with chrome accents features a reflective sheen that adds interest to any bath setting" added Mercurio.

The Museo Collection includes a widespread lavatory faucet, roman tub faucet, hand spray and tub/shower system. Coordinating bath accessories are offered with this collection. The collection is available in chrome, satin nickel and polished graphite and will be available for order in June.
